

FARN EVENTS	EVENTOS DE FARN
Tuesday, October 7, 2008 11:30-1:00pm 578 – Ecosystem Approach of Marine Biodiversity: The Southwest Atlantic ecosystem and the challenges of its sustainability. CCIB 325/12 María Eugenia Di Paola – John Croxall	Martes 7 de Octubre de 2008 11:30 - 13:00 hs 578 - Gestión Ecosistémica de la biodiversidad del Océano: El ecosistema Atlántico Sudoccidental y los desafíos para su sustentabilidad. CCIB 325/15 María Eugenia Di Paola – John Croxall	#578 The Patagonian Sea in Crisis: Strengths, Weaknesses, and Proposals for a Sustainable Process Since 2003, FARN has been researching the strengths and weaknesses of institutional, local, regional, and international regulation regarding sustainable progress in the Patagonia Sea by examining diverse interests and activities in the area, as well as by identifying actors and ecosystem needs based on previous multi-sector workshops and expert opinion. The intention of the work for this event is to share legal and institutional causes of the Patagonian crisis with the purpose of sharing both the international experience with the subject and the possible alternative approaches, treatments, and solutions – while keeping in mind the establishment of legislative guidelines directed towards sustainable progress in the area.
Tuesday, October 7, 2008 2:30-4:00pm 579 - Precautionary Principle in administrative and judicial decisions. CCIB 325/1	Martes 7 de Octubre de 2008 14:30 - 16:00 hs 579 – El principio precautorio en las decisiones administrativas y judiciales. CCIB	#579 The Daily Life of Precautionary Principle The challenge of the application and implementation of Precautionary Principle on the part of administrative and judicial authorities regarding conservation and management of biodiversity and natural

María Eugenia Di Paola – Sheila Abed – Klaus Bosselmann – Brendan Mackey	325/1 María Eugenia Di Paola – Sheila Abed – Klaus Bosselmann – Brendan Mackey	resources has been the objective of FARN’s Precautionary Principle Project. The Environmental Law Commission of UICN has also produced the Practical Guide for applying the principle. Therefore, the objective of this meeting is to share these investigations in order to create a space to exchange concrete experiences of applying the principle at an international level, analyzing both the circumstances that favor or hinder its application as well as the unresolved matter in the area.
Wednesday, October 8, 2008 6:30-8:00pm 575 - Private Conservation as tools to achieve sustainability - environmental, social, and economic. CCIB 131 María Eugenia Di Paola – Diego Moreno	Miércoles 8 de Octubre de 2008 18:30 - 20:00 hs 575 - La Conservación privada como herramienta para el logro de la sustentabilidad ambiental, social y económica. CCIB 131 María Eugenia Di Paola – Diego Moreno	575 Private Reservation: Is It Possible to Preserve, Produce, and Profit? This workshop aims to analyze possibilities of conciliation of interests between social, public, and economic sectors in order to bring private conservation to the international level, with an emphasis on design and application of both legal and economic instruments that favor and provide incentives for preserving private land. We will analyze experiences from successful activities related to private conservation as well as the need to strengthen and develop local and governmental capacities in order to fulfill this objective.